Germans Lose In Attempt To Retake Town

Moscow Reports Desperate
Effort To Recapture Kramatorsk Is Repulsed

RUSSIAN FORCES DRIVE WESTWARD

By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
MOSCOW, Feb. 27.—A desperate German effort to recapture the important town of Kramatorsk, midway between Rostov and Kharkov, has ended in a smashing enemy defeat following a bloody two-day battle, a Soviet communique reported today as Russian columns smashed ahead on the southern front.

At a heavy sacrifice of shock troops and motorized equipment, the Nazis succeeded in driving a wedge into Russian positions in a series of heavy counter-attacks. But this gain was wiped out and the whole enemy force thrown back from the environs of the town, said the Soviet midnight communique.

In the two-day battle the Germans lost 1,900 men killed, 22 tanks and 15 planes.

The Germans claimed occupation of Kramatorsk on Friday, but this was not conceded in Soviet circles.

The noon-day communique told of continued Soviet successes in the Kramatorsk area and new gains southwest of Voroshilovgrad in the Donets Basin where a large number of German and satellite remnants are trapped in a deep pocket. The bitter German effort to regain footholds in Kramatorsk was for the purpose of relieving pressure on its forces almost encircled in the area between Stalino and Voroshilovgrad.

"West of Kharkov we continued our offensive," said the Soviet mid-day communique. "One unit in stubborn fighting broke into an enemy-held town and captured much material."

"North of Kursk our forces continued to advance and captured several inhabited localities."

"Southwest of Kramatorsk Soviet forces continued to advance."

"No doubt this is the youngest applicant in the county," said Austin L. Cowmeadow, member of the ration board at Thaddeus Stevens school, Friday when Mrs. A. R. Smith, of 667 Superior street, secured a war ration book No. 2 for her two-day-old grandson, Donald William Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald William Wagner, same address, born February 24 at Jameson Memorial hospital. Mrs. Smith had secured her grandson's war ration book No. 1 at Aiken school earlier in the day. Donald's father, Private Wagner, is in the armed forces, stationed at Camp Haan, Cal., and is expected home on furlough.

Maybe it isn't true, we hope, the story about the woman who parked several cases of canned goods out and around last week because she didn't want them in the house until she had applied for her ration book, so she could truthfully say she had only so many cans in the house. It reminds us of Noel Coward's quip, "Don't quibble, Sybil."

Application cards for state auto licenses for the coming period are now being distributed through the mails to local auto owners. The licenses must be secured before April 1.

Plans Being Made For U. S. Offensives On Japs In Pacific

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—With the sea lanes to Australia protected by a chain of island bases, plans are being completed today for America's spring and summer offensive against Japan in the Pacific and China.

Reluctance of high officials to discuss possible actions indicated strongly that future strategy in the war against Japan has passed the preliminary stage.

Can't Reveal Plans
Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox declared that it was safe to assume "we are thinking of plans for every war theater but we can't talk about them."

At the same time he disclosed that a gigantic new U. S. air base has been constructed on the New Zealand island of Upolu in the Samoan group in the south Pacific.

The airfield is constructed of crushed volcanic rock and has a runway 1,000 feet wide and between 6,000 and 7,000 feet long. The runway, Knox said, was wide enough to permit five fighter planes to take off abreast.

One of Several Bases
This is only one of several new bases which have been completed during the past six months to guard the supply line from Hawaii to the south and southwest Pacific. A number of these are in the "secret" category.

Cologne Again Center Of Bomb Raid On Nazis

Heavy Assault Is Climax To 24-Hour Series Of Raids
On German Areas

SUBMARINE SUPPLY BASE ALSO BLASTED

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Feb. 27.—British heavy bombers smashed at oft-bombed Cologne in western Germany during the night in an unusually heavy assault, the air ministry announced today. The raid completed a 24-hour round the clock raid on the Reich and occupied Europe that has not been equalled in its sustained intensity, observers said.

The attack came just 24 hours after a devastating raid on the south German city of Nuremberg, and a series of daylight raids by American Fortresses and Liberators on the north German port of Wilhelmshaven, and RAF smashes at Dunkirk on the French coast, and the submarine supply depot at Rennes, in Brittany.

"Cologne was very heavily attacked during the night," said the air ministry announcement. "The weather was clear but a ground haze obscured the targets."

"Anti-aircraft defenses again were on a moderate scale, and only a few enemy fighters were sighted."

"Ten of our bombers are missing."

Exceedingly Heavy

Last night's raid was reported to have been the heaviest since the mass raids were unleashed on Germany with a 1,000-plane attack on Cologne.

This city is now the most-bombed point in Europe. It has been raided 113 times, and at least two of the mass raids were the heaviest in the history of warfare, both in point of number of planes participating and the tonnage of high explosives and incendiaries loosed on the battered city.

Despite wholesale evacuations following the smashing raids last year, it is believed that Cologne's population is still around half-a-million.

The Germans are known also to have undertaken gigantic repair drive to the city.

OPA WILL FIX WHEAT PRICES

Capitulates To Congress In Row Over Consideration Of Benefit Payments

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Capitulating to congress in the row over consideration of benefit payments in fixing farm prices, the OPA today announced it would soon set up price control on wheat.

The capitulation came as the OPA revealed that it had raised ceiling prices on soft wheat flour by approximately eight per cent in the east, south, and midwest. The price increase means that cost of crackers, cakes, and biscuits at retail stores will be boosted.

In the same announcement, the OPA said that Economic Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes had authorized the OPA to place ceiling prices on soft wheat of the Rocky Mountains.

The prices will be slightly higher than parity even before taking farm benefit payments into consideration. This is what congress wanted.

Previously, the OPA had considered farm benefit payments in fixing prices at parity or above parity levels. Congress, in a revolt against the administration during the past week, approved legislation which would require the OPA to ignore benefit payments. Although administration forces claimed that this would lead to inflation, the OPA, in announcing it would fix soft wheat prices, followed the plan of the congress.

The OPA announcement said: "This forthcoming regulation—the first price control on wheat—is now in its drafting stages and will be issued shortly."

The increase on soft wheat flour authorized today was 60 cents for a 196 lb. barrel of flour. This type of flour is used primarily for cakes, crackers and cookies, the OPA explained. Even those prices, it was said, represent slightly more than parity prices for wheat without taking into consideration farm benefit payments.

The OPA admitted that the increase "will have some eventual effect on prices which the consumer must pay for crackers, biscuits, and cakes."

Specific Ceiling Prices On Retail Meat Will Be Effective Tuesday

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Specific dollar and cent ceiling prices on retail meat will be clamped down next Tuesday, it was disclosed today by department of agriculture sources.

This action will be taken to equalize prices in order that the meat rationing program can go into effect, and to curb black market operations, it was said.

At the same time, meat will be rushed to shortage areas on the east and west coasts to relieve the critical situations there, a department spokesman revealed.

The ceilings will not change the general price levels much, according to the agriculture schedule but will result in an overall equalization in which some very high prices will come down and lower prices will be raised.

In Three Classifications
It is understood that the meat price ceilings will be divided into three classifications according to other measures taken to ration and stabilize food.

The ceilings will be divided into super market prices, ordinary chain store prices, and independent store prices; the exact dollar and cent ceilings to be announced by the Office of Price Administration.

The next step, according to the OPA, will be to standardize the meat cuts so housewives will be certain.

Governor Will Present Budget

Matter Of Providing Pay Increase For Teachers Up To Legislature

SOME TAX DECREASE TO BE RECOMMENDED

HARRISBURG, Feb. 27.—The state's 60,000 public school teachers will have to depend upon the legislature for pay increases, Gov. Edward Martin disclosed today.

The chief executive will present to the General Assembly on Monday night a $335,000,000 departmental budget for the two fiscal years beginning June 1 and stated that while he will recommend an increase in the appropriation to the Department of Public Instruction it will not be sufficient to provide higher salaries for teachers.

Governor Martin declared that "I will not make any specific recommendation on teachers' salaries although I will call attention to them."

Would Need $15,000,000

With instructors clamoring for an "upward revision of salaries to meet higher living costs," he explained that an additional $15,000,000 would be needed to increase their salaries. He asserted that he is placing the problem before the General Assembly and it will be up to the legislature to decide whether to increase salaries and, if so, from where the money is to be derived.

The governor will recommend a $400,000,000 tax cut and he pointed out that part of this saving would have to be eliminated to meet the teachers' demands.

He announced that he has definitely decided to recommend the reduction of the mercantile tax. Previously, he stated that "I'm going to recommend reductions in the tax on personal property, bank shares and corporate loans, and maybe mercantile taxes." The mercantile tax, he said, amounts to "just about $7,600,000."

craft went down under fire from the enemy's own anti-aircraft guns. While Allied fighter patrols were active, British Wellington bombers went after the port of Bizerte, where harbor installations were attacked and a farm-house used as a billet for Axis troops was strafed. A concentration of enemy tanks around the farm-house was bombed.

Five Allied planes are missing. Sweep Axis Forces Back

Allied combat units, strongly supported by aircraft, swept the beaten Axis army of Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel back on the central Tunisian plains as evidence grew that the enemy might fall back another 75 miles to his original positions on a line from Faid Pass southwest to Gafsa.

The Axis retreat was hastened by the threat of the British Eighth Army which was reported to have penetrated the formidable March defense, on the northern end of the "little Maginot line."

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces were reported to have cracked the March positions at Wadi Ziz, a deep, rock-straw gorge that forms a part of the defense line. British spearheads were said to be advancing steadily through the high stone passes over a maze of mountain trails.

May Evacuate

In London the Daily Telegraph reported that the Axis tank and infantry forces were preparing to evacuate Sbeitla, Feriana and Gafsa after completing withdrawal from Kasserine on the plains at the eastern mouth of Kasserine Pass. Fires were observed in supply dumps and stores indicating plans immediately to abandon these towns the Telegraph said.

Axis columns were reported fleeing southward toward Feriana on the road to Gafsa. Their path of retreat was strewn with the wreckage of burned out and ruined equipment. The enemy withdrawals were hampered by constant Allied air attacks.

British motorized forces, holding the line north of Kasserine in the Sbita area with the support of American artillery units, have thrown back the enemy 12 to 15 miles in rapid thrusts east and southeast of the town. These forces were reported within 10 miles of Sbeitla, to the south.

A French communiqué reported that its troops co-operating with other Allied forces in the Sbita district had advanced 12 miles to the east without encountering serious enemy opposition.

As in the disastrous Libyan retreat, Rommel appeared to be using Italian rearward forces to cover the withdrawal of his panzer units. Allied reports said most of the prisoners taken as the enemy fell back were hapless Italians.

COLOGNE AGAIN CENTER OF BOMB RAID ON NAZIS

programs to get its vast war industries in operation again. Berlin admitted that a "big industrial city" in Western Germany had been bombed during the night, but made its usual claim that damage was limited to residential areas and casualties restricted to civilian population.

Speedy Mosquito Raid

The night raid by the speedy mosquito bombers on Rennes followed by a few hours attacks by American-made Ventura bombers on the docks and harbor facilities at Dunkirk. The port was bombed three separate times in the afternoon hours.

With the RAF night attack on the south German city of Nuremberg, the smashing American air force daylight raid on the North Sea port of Wilhelmshaven, the raids were declared by some observers to constitute the most powerful sustained air offensive yet unleashed on enemy held territory.

The marshalling yards at Rennes are vital to the German submarine campaign. Here are stored every U-boats which operate from bases on the French Atlantic coast. The storage sheds over an area of a mile and a third, lost to the Allies.

From Rennes rail lines radiate to the Nazi-held French bases at Lorient, St. Nazaire and Brest. Heavy fires were started in the sheds from which flames shot hundreds of feet into the air. One heavy explosion was probably caused by a direct hit on an ammunition dump.

No Enemy Fighters

No enemy fighters rose to meet the Mosquitoes at Rennes.

U. S. Air Force fighters joined RAF and Canadian Air Force fighter planes in escorting the Ventura bombers to Dunkirk. Here some enemy opposition was encountered and three bombers and two RAF fighters were lost. All American fighters returned safely.

One enemy fighter plane was shot down.

During the morning RAF patrols flew over the coastal waters and attacked four small enemy ships, one of which was left in flames.

Another early evening sweep by RAF fighters was made over the Cherbourg area in an attack on a German airfield.

The American attack on Wilhelmshaven, carried out by Flying Fortress and Liberator four-motored bombers, was the second daylight raid against this important enemy port. The big ships met considerable opposition and seven of the big planes failed to return.

No announcement of the number of enemy planes downed was available until the reports of the pilots have been checked.

The raid was declared to have been "very successful" and bomb bursts were observed on shipping and docks.

forces fought engagements with enemy infantry and tank units and repelled many counter-attacks in which 300 German troops were wiped out. On another sector our artillery destroyed a number of tanks and pounded motorized columns which suffered heavy losses.

German Claims

Recent German claims to have recaptured several towns on the Donets front had no confirmation in Soviet quarters.

Today the Nazi controlled Paris radio claimed that German counter assaults had recaptured the rail junction city of Loxovaya, 125 miles southwest of Kharkov on the rail line leading to the lower Dnieper Valley. This likewise was unconfirmed in other quarters and appeared unlikely.

The desperation of the German attacks in the Kramatorsk area lent credence to reports that storming of the city had been at the direct orders of Hitler who was said to have demanded that the city be recaptured regardless of cost.

Soviet forces battled their way ahead west of Rostov, and on one sector penetrated strong enemy defense positions. In fighting in this district the Russians killed 100 Nazis and captured much booty.

In addition to serving the soldiers at the camps and in the field, providing them with entertainment and furnishing rest homes, the Red Cross is providing bandages for the wounded, kits for every man who leaves an embarkation port for overseas; buying yarn to be knitted into garments for soldiers and refugees, along with other knitted and crocheted garments; providing medical supplies, and many other war activities in this country and abroad. It has also been carrying on its regular activities on the home front, taking care of people in disasters within the country, instructing in first aid, life-saving, home nursing, diet and other activities. PLANS BEING MADE FOR U. S. OFFENSIVES ON JAPS IN PACIFIC and on Guadalcanal helped greatly to reduce the enemy threat to the vital sea lanes, and official circles believe that the enemy now is not in a position to carry out any serious invasion thrust.

These sources agree, however, that the Jap high command may attempt to capture some remote American-held island in the Pacific to "have face" and possibly to disrupt U. S. offensive plans.

Airmen Busy

Meanwhile, American airmen from Australia, Guadalcanal and the Aleutians are keeping enemy forces in those areas busy by bombing raids whenever weather permits.

More important, these planes also are keeping track of Japanese fleet movements to prevent any large-scale surprise counter offensive from the sea.

Only the American and United Nations high commands know what form the counter-offensive will take in the Pacific, but undoubtedly long-range bombing planes will play an important role when the "big show" begins.

SAGA OF HEROISM IN TUNISIA

TO AMERICA'S ANNALS of heroism has been added, in the last few days, the shining story of the weary, battered Yankee soldiers—tank forces, artillery and infantry—who, after fighting Marshal Rommel's Tunisian blitz with a discouraging lack of success for a week, at last stopped the Axis drive and turned it into a hasty retreat.

Something may happen to stall the Americans, reinforced by British units in the later stages of the action, in their brilliant repulse of Rommel's men.

But nothing Rommel can do will wipe out the gallantry, the courage and the stalwart fortitude of the American troops who smashed away for days with everything they had in a futile effort to halt the Nazi offensive and were rewarded at last by forcing a withdrawal.

The Americans in Tunisia have had their baptism of fire. They have proved by their valor against Rommel's toughened veterans that they have what it takes. Like the Marines and the Army men on Guadalcanal, they have shown the world that they don't quit under fire; that they keep on fighting when the going is hard; that they are able, after taking it on the chin, to strike back when the enemy falters.

These fighting Yanks in Tunisia, who can turn an enemy blitz into a retreat, merit the best we can send them—the best tanks, the best bombers, the best supplies of all kinds; and plenty of them. They might not have had to take such punishment from Rommel at the beginning if they had had heavier tanks and more air support. Let them have quantities of the best weapons we can provide—they know how to use them.

FOOD RATIONING

The civilian's watchword from now on is, "Watch Your Points." Anybody could get into trouble about food, clothing and a lot of other things, by neglecting this rule. The rationing authorities have to be hard-hearted. It must be assumed that when an individual's or family's allotment of anything is used up for that month, there isn't any more, and won't be any more until the next month. There is no other way, apparently, to make existing and prospective supplies go around.

It is going to be tough on the pampered children of this generation in a favored and wasteful country, to get used to the new regimen and the Spartan rations. But there will be enough foods available, of the proper kinds, to keep people from going hungry and to provide their normal energy. In some cases they will be better off than usual, because there will be less over-eating and maybe less eating of the wrong things. The British people, who pioneered very intelligently in this field, found that when luxuries were abolished and a scientific food system became effective, the national health improved. The American people will not go so far as they have done, perhaps, in getting down to basic essentials and sharing alike, but some useful lessons will be learned.

DANGER TO UNITY

As the fortunes of the United Nations improve and victory moves noticeably nearer, there is an increase in plans for remaking the world and establishing the peace after the war is over. It is, of course, wise and proper that we have an understanding in advance, so far as possible, in such territorial rearrangements as will be necessary after the war is over. The Russian newspaper Pravda recently stated along this line that Russia would consider the Baltic states and Bessarabia as Russian territory after the war is over. We want no secret agreements this time, as was the case during the last war when such agreements made by allied states while the war was on, totally without the knowledge of the United States brought post-war trouble and a temporary patched-up peace.

At the same time a great many statesmen in the United States are bringing forth plans for building an international Utopia after the war is over. Some of these plans include fantastic schemes. In most of these schemes Uncle Sam would be the pay-off man in both money and materials furnished to induce other nations to "throw in" with us. Plans and discussions of this kind do little good now, but may serve to injure the war effort by taking the minds of the people off the task at hand, which is defeating the Axis.

We want to remember above all that we are fighting to maintain American ideals and the American way of life. We don't want to endanger that at the peace table through impractical commitments after the war is over. In this respect recent words uttered by Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles in an address in Maryland are worth remembering. Mr. Welles stated in part:

"It can never be made too clear nor reiterated too often, that the foreign policies of the United States, exactly like their domestic policies, should only be determined from the standpoint of what the American people believe in their real, their practical self-interest. Our foreign policy must not be—and in the long run will not be—based upon emotional altruism nor sentimental aspiration."

Secretary Welles is neither an isolationist of the old school nor a Utopian internationalist. He believes in an enlightened American policy which puts our own needs and our own safety first. Our extremists could well commit these words to memory.

The United States will do its part after the war is over. It has always done its full share of helping the unfortunate of the world. But let us not go butterfly-chasing in a way which will endanger war unity by acrimonious discussion at a time when real unity is needed.

"We shall have faith," said Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, "that America will not be outwitted by the mirage of contingent reasons of expediency." Not as long as we have anything to give away, lady.

Automobiles are growing older and more decrepit, and many a driver may discover when the 35-mile speed limit is taken off after the war that it was low speed that kept the old jalopy from falling apart.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CURING CHILD OF JEALOUSY
Unless the youngster who is giving trouble often mistreats his brother or sister his parents usually insist he has no jealousy. Yet misbehavior of all sorts might easily be caused by jealousy. Indeed, when one child is very hard to manage and another of the family, especially a younger one, is very easy to manage, it is a pretty safe bet the jealousy is a major cause.

A mother writes of her boy 4½ years old:
"I have a daughter 14 months old who is very good. She is contented and seldom cries. Donnie was the same at her age. The trouble has been only since then. Strangely, Donnie has never been jealous of his sister."

"Suppose someone enters our home. It might be his grandfather, the next-door neighbor or the insurance man. Donnie runs ahead of me to the door, starts talking on any subject he thinks of. They reply kindly to him and then start talking to me. Donnie walks in circles around the room, or stands on his head on the sofa, or lies on the floor kicking his heels. I have tried sending him out of the room. I have spanked. I have requested him to be quiet. No use.
"When my husband comes home to dinner, he and I are tired. We wish we could have a quiet meal and a few hours of quiet together. We can't. After dinner, our little son crawls on hands and knees, jumps up and down on the sofa or stumps loudly through the house. He will get in front of us to make us notice him. We have allowed him to take part in our conversation but he wants all of the attention."

The Doctor's Answer
As I wrote this mother, the fact that the baby sister is so good helps cause Donnie to be so bad. Naturally she gets considerable attention and approval for her goodness and he, in contrast, so much disapproval. You and I, in Donnie's place, would act about as he does. Improvement will be slow at best, but it will come gradually as he feels he is loved and approved as much as baby sister, as he gains more satisfaction from socially approved conduct. He will need some punishment, of course, but you need to know by which he gets less of it and more approval.
Next time you have a guest, let Donnie take his wraps. If refreshments are served, let him help in their serving. Show the guest a few of the houses and trains the lad has built and induce him to build a few in the next room for the guest to see on leaving. In the meanwhile, don't be too much disturbed by the youngster's showing off.

Induce Donnie to have some of his crude creations ready to show to the guests. Dad on his arrival. Dad might read a story to him before dinner, a few more after dinner and spend a short while doing things with Donnie. Both you and Dad should fondle Donnie often and avoid much show of affection to the baby in Donnie's presence.
Please do be very patient. In case you wish to read at length about this problem, write me at 225 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it and ask for my bulletin on "Jealousy."

Solving Parent Problem
Q. Don't you think the nervous, jittery child can be helped most as a rule, when parents work on themselves to be more calm and serene?
A. I do. For this reason, I have prepared a special bulletin, "The Nervous, Jittery Mother," to be had without cost, by writing me, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

The World and the Mud Puddles

HOW ABOUT IT?
"Bill" Henry is an individualistic columnist, with the Los Angeles Times. He is also a personal friend of Eddie Rickenbacker and, naturally, he talks in his column about Rickenbacker, and as the flyer did some speech making in Los Angeles the last week in January, Henry published the following:

"Eddie Rickenbacker has brought the deep-thinking-planners-for-a-better-world down to earth with a terrific crash by suggesting that they postpone worrying about a better world for Europe for a minute and think about a better world for America—particularly for the boys who are fighting to do all this."

"Rickenbacker has always been a practical sort of a guy—that's one reason why he is still alive. While other race drivers were trying to learn how to go around corners on two wheels, Rick was working on his car to be sure that it would hold together. Rick on the west front wasn't one of those 'dawn patrol' heroes who relied on the alcohol on his breath to keep his engine running—he was cool, calculating, courageous, but intensely practical."

"In a word of dashing, reckless, carefree young Lechinsvay who made up the Air Force of the first World War, Rickenbacker provided a strange contrast. He took all the chances that were necessary."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:49. Sun rises tomorrow 7:36.

Money don't count in this war. It's the sweat, blood and tears that cost the most.

If the farmers have to pay the price to produce the food that the people get who eat the food, things are going to be tough.

Nothing New—What kind of breakfast food does your wife serve?
"Burnt bacon and scraped toast."

Remember away back when mother not only baked the bread, but saw to it that it was properly cut?

Know your food and like it.

It's not so hard to plan meals when there are not so many things to plan with.

Maybe She Looked It—The teacher had asked the class to name all the states. One small urchin responded so quickly and accurately that she commended him for it.

"You did very well," she said, "much better than I could have done at your age."

"Yes," he replied, "and there were only 13 states then, too."

There are but few ballroom gowns that cover a warm heart.

Money doesn't really make the mare go, but it certainly is an inducement to incidental effort.

It's better to tell the truth and run than to lie and get caught in the act.

The money maker is never weary the weary man never makes money.

Blame yourself first, then others.

Scorching the Scots—Japies: "Did you hear that McPherson had bought Viljoen's garage?"
Petrus: "No—But I notice the Free Air signs have been taken down."

He Feared It—"I used to be jess' crazy about apples," said Uncle Mose, thoughtfully, "but heah lately I has done give 'em up. Yassuh, Ise skaid. You see, I bin hearin' so much about dat awful apple-plexy."

A boy can attract as much attention by keeping clean as a girl can by keeping dirty.

We often find it more interesting than walking home to take half the world trying to get into a bus that is already overcrowded by the other half.

If human nature is to be changed, it ought to be left to popular vote, with politics left out.

There will be no ban on the fresh vegetables you raise in your own garden this summer. Give that a lot of thought now.

We know a lot of people who can tell other people what to do and some of them insist on getting paid for telling them.

Bean Him—A teacher called for sentences using the word "beans."
"My father grows beans," said the bright boy of the class.
"My mother cooks beans," came from another pupil.
Then a third piped up:
"We are all human beans."

A good place to keep canned goods now is in a safe.

Jim—I wonder why women pay more attention to beauty than brains? Marion—Because no matter how stupid a man is, he is seldom blind.

Inference—He: "I wish I had a nickel for every girl I've kissed." She: "What would you do? Buy a pack of gum?"

Getting a suit of clothes that someone is tired of will also be a hard matter now.

Of course the plan of paying before you leave is also enforced by some people now.

Now is a good time to put a gift horse in the mouth.

Good Bug Remedy—"What, on what," asked mother, "shall we do about our daughter becoming nothing more than a jittersbug?"
Said father, hopefully: "Let us spray."

Food in restaurants will also be rationed, people getting only about 50 per cent of what they get now. That will not be much.

Then He Worked—Smithson: "How long have you worked in that office?"
Greene: "Since they threatened to fire me."

Possibly you have noticed it, too. In a large family, where all the members are intelligent, industrious and honest, they manage to get along.

So mamma has leased a show place in the country, has started the campaign with an elaborate debut for darling daughter. Through a mutual friend, I learn that both of them will have to go on relief if the campaign fails. Such mother's ignorance of male psychology is pathetic. Wise parents know that a girl's best chance of making an advantageous marriage lies in a career for herself wherein she will meet and attract such men. Each year more and more executives marry their own or their friends' secretaries, more and more great medical specialists marry nurses associated with them, just as more and more publishers and theatrical, cinema and radio tycoons marry the women associated with their work. It is usually the "cream puffs" of the Social Register who now allow their scheming mothers to mislead them on wife-hunting expeditions among the drawing rooms of the so-called "elite."

Question: The bride's uncle will give her away. Should he and his wife announce the marriage or should the bride's sister and her husband do so?—Julia.

Answer: If she has made her home with her aunt and uncle, they should announce the marriage.

Question: May my mother send out formal announcements of my second marriage? I am divorced.—D. D.

Answer: Yes, using your full name, says Mr. and Mrs. John Jones, . . . the marriage of their daughter Helen Jones Smith, etc.

National Lottery Idea Is Revived Again
Is Urged As Pleasant Means Of Taxation
Explanation Of Lottery Operation Given

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist
WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—A financial pinch on a national scale never fails to elicit advocates of a government lottery. They are starting now in connection with our war effort.

It is a method of money-raising with certain arguments, from the revenue-seeker's standpoint, in its favor.

The contributor is not aggravated by having some official collector levying on him virtually at the point of a shotgun. He coughs up his dough voluntarily, and, if he is a good gambler, enjoys it. In fact, if he wins a few dollars, he is delighted, and, if he loses he is accustomed to doing so—at poker, the horses and similar gambles. "Hard luck!" is the fiercest thing he says about it.

It is a pay-in-advance proposition also. The government mulls a citizen for all the taxes it can squeeze out of him, but it cannot squeeze out what he does not have and it is hard for the government to determine exactly how much THAT is. The lottery investor, however, plunks down his currency before he gets his ticket; otherwise he does not get it.

Then the government, like any other gambling-house proprietor, holds out what it considers its fair (or excessive) proportion of overhead, and splits up the smallish remainder among the few lucky chaps; none too liberally, either. But the lucky birds are tickled pink and the unlucky ones do not realize that they have been tricked for the other guys—and the gambling joint.

Private games of chance are illegal, but, if they are of the respectable type, they stick to their interpretations of honesty. They have to, or they could not hold their customers.

Poker games among close friends are in a different classification. Their rate as amusement of a somewhat extra-large character, but just social anyway.

Regular gaming houses, however, have long been recognized as pernicious. Now, ought the federal government formally to adopt them into its system?—to begin conducting them?

A national lottery, anyway, seemed to me a mighty undignified (not to say immoral) system for a big government to try to help financing itself in. I will gamble, on occasion, but I hate to see it governmentalized.

Nevertheless, a governmental lottery is being urged. It will be urged on a post-war basis, too.

It is not post-war planning, of (Continued On Page Seven)

ON WAR MARRIAGES

Should young people marry with war going on?
When soon to the front must the husband be gone?
I am sure I don't know.
There are those who insist it were wiser to wait.
While others will argue for letting them mate.
There it is, con and pro.

Some folks answer: "Yes. Let them wed if they choose." They will anyhow, even though we refuse.
So let's not interfere!"
While others to gloomy predictions inclined
Say that war leaves too many young widows behind
With orphans to rear.

Well, peace time or war time there's no one can guess.
What of good luck or bad will the future possess?
And so I suggest:
If, in love with each other, they're anxious to wed,
Just give them our blessing and say "go ahead!"
And then hope for the best.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

(International News Service Staff Writer)
Comes now old Thurman Arnold, the trust buster and author of "The Folklore of Capitalism," to hit the sexiest trial for that very capitalism.

This is as unexpected as square eggs from a round hen.

Old Thurman suggests that we switch our thinking from "keeping a fool from losing his money" to willingness "to take a chance on the capitalistic system."

"We must get back to the old economies of opportunity, of taking a chance, which made America great and I think this war is going to do it for us," said Mr. Arnold.

Amen, brother, but you've been standing outside the meeting house a long time.

Thurman says we have been busy "creating a situation where anybody who remained sober and didn't run off with somebody else's wife was assured of a comfortable old age."

Amen, again, brother, and may you bring us many converts to the gospel of the Lord helps those who helps themselves.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright, 1942)
By The Baltimore Sun

Politics Good And Bad

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. IT WOULD BE fine, of course, if while the war is on all political considerations could be banished from the minds of our rulers and, without regard to parties or elections, every energy be concentrated upon the conduct of the war. That was the idea promulgated right after Pearl Harbor, when all our public men from the President down proclaimed it as their own.

BUT it is just does not work out, and for a number of reasons. One is that, even in great crisis, politicians capable of rising to so high a plane are exceedingly rare. There may be a few such here, but they certainly are not in positions of power either in the executive or legislative branches of the Government. Even if there were it would be an exceedingly difficult thing to do. Our normal political processes, very properly, have not been suspended and the fact that we had an election last fall certainly has not interfered with the conduct of the war. On the contrary, there is a very good argument that loss of control of Congress by the Administration has had beneficial results.

THE FACT IS that the resumption of its independence by the Congress is the only effective corrective to Administration arrogance, blundering and wastefulness. Without that there would be no check on the excesses toward which so many of the new agencies tend. In this and some other respects Congressional position is the only check on the president's power. Up to the present, the public has worked well from the public standpoint. Whether this will continue remains to be seen, but one thing is certain—politics will be increasingly in the minds of everybody here as the 1944 conventions, now hardly more than sixteen months away, approach. This is natural and inevitable.

EVIDENCES OF THIS multiply both in the Administration and in Congress. If each politically stimulates the other to action in the national interest, the outcome will be fortunate, indeed. Unhappily, however, there are indications that the rivalry between the President and an independent Congress may become a rivalry in stalemate rather than a rivalry in statesmanship. If instead of striving to outdo each other in service for the general good, each tries to outmaneuver the other in appealing to certain class interests and prejudices, the effect will be bad.

SOME OBSERVERS feel that this sort of jockeying is even now going on with the tax situation. On the one hand the Administration is still opposing the sales tax. Neither its opposition to the Runt pay-as-you-go plan nor the Runt's most (Continued On Page Seven)

LOOKING AT LIFE

—By Erich Brandeis

Everytime I open my newspaper I see stories about persons kicking against some thing.
If it's Roosevelt, it's Wilkie. If it isn't Hoover, it's LaGuardia. If it isn't F.W.M., it's Henderson or Jeffers or Baruch or the local dog catcher.

It's sort of a hobby with me to see who the kickers are. What have they done? They should be better than the things they kick about.

Some little business-wacker, president of a ladies' knitting society in Hot-water, Idaho or some other such body or place gets up and makes a speech.

Everything the army is doing is wrong. They should have taken Tunisia by now. We should have taken Tokyo six months ago. Our taxes are outrageous—and so forth and so on.

There's mild applause, and they go back to discuss a subject they are much better fitted for—cooking and sewing.

Sure, I have a right to kick. Kicking is one of our great democratic privileges.

To call a big man a heel makes a small man feel important. When that fellow in New York named his kid "Adolf Hitler" the other day he said, "It's my constitutional privilege." I'm a free man. I can do anything I want," he was absolutely right.

But when his neighbors threatened to knock his block off he promptly changed the baby's name to "Theodore Roosevelt."

I do my share of kicking too. And sometimes I think I should have my block knocked off.

Maybe the guy I'm kicking about is doing the best he can. Maybe he is much more right than I can see now.

What am I doing that's smarter than what he's doing? Am I helping my country more than he is?

At I'm helping him by kicking? Am I helping myself? Am I helping you?

I must have said all this out loud.

My wife just came in and said, "Oh, shut up you talk too much!"

Members and friends of Central Christian church, corner of Pennsylvania and Long avenues, gathered in the church parlors Friday evening for a farewell program in honor of the Rev. Sidney K. Bliss, retiring pastor of the church.

Mr. Bliss will leave March 1 for Pittsburgh, where he will take up his new duties as director of religious education in this state for the Christian church.

During the program Mr. Bliss was presented with a nice gift from the church members, the presentation being made by George S. Bauman, who acted as toastmaster.

The program was as follows: invocation, Thomas Phelps, chairman of the board; pep songs, led by Dave Lewis; accompanists, Mildred Cowmeadow, organist and Margaret Cowmeadow, pianist; opening remarks by toastmaster, George S. Bauman; solo, Dave Lewis; remarks, Rev. Clyde Roland, pastor of the Madison Avenue Christian church; pep songs; remarks, Dr. G. S. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian church; reading, Audie Cromie; remarks, Mr. Phelps; pictures, Mr. Bliss; presentation of gift; remarks, Mr. Bliss; benediction, Rev. Robert M. C. Griswold, rector of Trinity Episcopal church.

At the close of the program deconees of the church served refreshments.

Among the special guests in attendance at the event were Mr. Bliss' father, W. Agnew Bliss, of Beaver, Pa.; Mrs. Tom Sullivan, of Pittsburgh, a member and deaconess of the church; the South Side ministers and members from the Madison Avenue and First Christian churches.

The committee in charge of the program included George S. Bauman, Mildred Cowmeadow, Mrs. Margaret Davis and Elmer Glass.

Girl Scouts of troop 12 held their meeting recently at the Epworth church. The girls are studying under the leadership of Helen Walters and Irene Milton. March 2 is the next meeting.

Girl Scouts of troop 6 met at the Temple Israel recently. Each patrol taught a game to the other patrols for the game badge. The tin can collection was discussed by the group.

"I'm worried about Ma..."

This boy is a casualty.

A few days ago, he was a hardened fighting man—with a glint in his eye and a set to his mouth that boded ill for his Axis foes.

Tonight he's just a bewildered lad. Bad news from home has hit him—and put him out of action—as effectively as an enemy bullet. Desperately he has tried to solve a problem back home; his mother ill, lonely, helpless—and apparently nothing he can do about it.

Tortured by doubt and uncertainty, he's come to the Red Cross Field Director for help.

He'll get it.

It is the job of Red Cross Field Men to unravel human snarls. Across their desks, sometimes no better than battered crates, more than 1,500,000 men in the past year have poured their troubles—have asked for and received counsel and assistance. Daily and nightly, with our armed forces from Africa to India, from Iceland to New Guinea, they are keeping up the morale our fighting men must have.

Not only to the fighting men but to War's victims wherever they can be reached the Red Cross is carrying relief supplies, clothing, medicines. The cost is tremendous and ever-increasing.

The Second War Fund is greater than the First, but no greater than the increased needs.

The reason for, or purpose of corrugating iron is that flat sheet metal tends to buckle and get out of shape with every change in temperature, whereas the corrugations give it greatly increase stiffness, and adapt it to numerous purposes for which it would not otherwise be fitted.

Teachers, workers and members of adult classes of Lawrence county Sunday schools, as well as young people, members of the children's departments and those interested in music education, can all be accommodated by the Leadership Training School that starts at the First Baptist church Monday, March 15th, and continues for the four following Monday nights.

The Bible courses have for instructors Dr. G. S. Bennett and Rev. Oliver W. Hurst. The young people's courses, Rev. Clyde Roland and Rev. C. R. Thayer. The children's and music course, Mr. Chester Kyle. The Dean of the school is Frank L. Burton.

Methodists Begin Dedication Week

Methodists of New Castle will join in a country-wide observance of a Week of Dedication, beginning Sunday, February 28, in which nearly 8,000,000 members of the denomination will be asked to pledge a "new dedication of self, service and substance" in meeting the challenges and needs of a war-torn world.

Pastors of the Methodist churches in New Castle and vicinity are issuing a call for all members to attend services on the next two Sundays in order to make personal commitments. Culmination of next week's special services, home prayer meetings and discussion groups, and of two months of preparations will come Sunday, March 7, when personal commitments will be made and a voluntary, sacrificial offering will be taken to aid in meeting war-time emergency needs of the church.

The Methodist Council of Bishops and the General Commission on World Service and Finance, in joint session last August, approved plans for the Week of Dedication and expressed the hope that more than a million dollars would be contributed for the various causes which demand immediate financial aid.

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of Chicago, chairman of a special committee, enumerated the emergency needs to benefit from the offering as follows: Spiritual services for men in armed services; religious work among families in industrial defense areas; relief for war refugees; air to chaplains in Army, Navy and Marine Corps; expansion of missionary work in Latin America; evacuating and re-establishing foreign missionaries; building churches in defense areas, and aid to Methodist schools.

A feature of the national Week of Dedication climax on Sunday, March 7, will be the holding of services in every one of the 42,000 Methodist churches in America—the first time this has ever happened on one day.

Services will be held in many churches through the week as opportunity offers and the Bishop of the Pittsburgh Area, Bishop James H. Straughn, will strike the keynote.

CONVENTION-RETREAT TO BE AT ZELIENOPLE

On Monday, March 1, the spring convention and pre-Lenten retreat of the West Conference, Pittsburgh Synod, will be held in the English Lutheran church, Zelenople.

Welsh Music

Giraldus Cambrensis, writing in the twelfth century, said: "They do not sing in unison like the inhabitants of other countries but in different parts, so that in a company of singers, which one frequently meets with in Wales, as many different parts are heard as there are performers, who at length unite with organic melody in one consonance and the soft sweetness of B. Their children from their infancy sing in the same manner." It has been suggested that in the oldest times of Wales we may have the remains of pre-Roman British music; whether that is so or not, it is true that few nations have had such a long musical tradition as the Welsh. It is not merely that the country produces fine individual musicians, but that the errand boy on the street, the miner, the tradesman behind his counter—nearly every individual in the country—has this extraordinary natural understanding of melody and harmony; so that any collection of people can improvise or part-sing at will and with perfect musical judgment.

RESERVATIONS WILL BE MADE FOR FRIENDS AND RELATIVES OF MEN SERVING IN THE ARMED FORCES.

Sunday Schools Ready To Begin Increase Drive

Average Attendances For Last Year Have Been Furnished
By Most Churches

Most of the Sunday schools planning to participate in the "Victory" Pre-Easter Increase campaign being sponsored by the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association, have furnished their average attendances for the calendar year, 1942, and are ready for the start. During the eight weeks starting Sunday, March 7th, the attendance will be phoned in every Sunday.

armed forces and also the seven-day defense workers, the 1942 average in practically every case is less than the 1941 average. A percentage allowance is being made for these reasons, so every Sunday school participating this year will have a good opportunity to show an increase over the basis figure taken for last year.

The number attending Sunday school that remained for the morning church service will also be kept by the New Castle Sunday schools and these figures will be published. Most Sunday schools will furnish cards to be placed on the collection plates at the church service, to determine the number at the morning church service. However, the individual Sunday schools may see any plan they wish to determine this phase of the campaign, as long as it is accurate.

The "Increase in Evangelism" goal of the campaign is already being emphasized in some Sunday schools and this will continue until Easter. The Bible Study goal is being emphasized by the Leadership Training School that starts at the First Baptist church Monday evening, March 15th and continuing for the four succeeding Monday nights. It has been recommended by some that daily Bible reading folders be distributed in the Sunday schools taking part. Some have already been mentioned, and an especially good one is being put out by the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, and copies will be furnished upon request at a small cost.

RATIONING MEANS LESS TO THOSE WHO WEAR PENNEY SHOES

The way Penney Shoes are built, their wearers have little to fear from the four-months rationing limit. Our customers are used to wearing them much longer than that! Good care helps, of course! Putting in shoe trees, and straightening heels when they need it; polishing often, to keep leather young, and prevent cracking and scuffing. But above all, they are GOOD shoes in the first place. Our 41 years in the shoe business are your guarantee of quality and value!

course. Nevertheless, it seems to be what we are coming into. With the average guy it is a gamble.

Right now he is due to be bankrupt anyway in short order. The average middle-class salaried man cannot pay his current income tax without borrowing. The concern I borrow from is sociable enough as to immediate advances, but I do not believe it would be if it realized how tightly I am due to be pinched presently. Or else I will have to restrict my household expenses to the verge of impossibility.

All right. Suppose I gamble on a governmental lottery. If I draw a prize, all will be comparatively well. But suppose I get a blank when the drawing is completed! I have lived in countries where there have been government lotteries. I never lived in one, though, where a good number was so imperative. The demand in the United States is voiced in Congress and reflected in the press.

It is due to become more intensive.

Well, it is a "cheap" bunkum way of raising government money—that is obvious.

The notion is to get more cash than folk have available. "This war's a gamble, anyway," say the critics. "Let's gamble on it up to the limit!"

Ordinary gambling is a sin. That is agreed. How about international gambling?

That is a sin, too, of course, but whose sin is it? The calculation is that a $1-gamble is a $1-sin, out of a $5-merit.

The urgent demand is for a maximum limit.

The World and the Mud Puddles

but never trusted to blind luck. If he could help it, he piled up the score that made him the American ace of aces by doing just a little extra—he took all the patrols required of him by the rules and then, in addition, went out and did a little extra Hun hunting on his own.

"When Rickenbacker took off in his Uncle-Sam's-Hat-in-the-Ring Spad he did so after assuring himself that his controls were properly hooked up, his 220 Hispano-Suiza motor was ticking on all eight, there was sufficient oil pressure in the engine, there was plenty of ammunition for his machine gun. Having taken all sensible precautions he was ready to take off and risk his neck. And, by the way, he hasn't changed his basic way of doing things in the quarter of a century since his fighter-pilot days, any more than he changed them when he switched from racing motor cars to fighter planes.

"If you've been reading his own story of the three weeks in a rubber boat, bouncing around in the Pacific, you can see the same characteristics—practical, sensible precautions to make the most of every move that would increase their chances of survival. Rickenbacker recognized that the men in the boats was to preserve their own strength. They couldn't control the weather, they couldn't bring the rescuers to find them, but they could conserve their own resources. That's practical thinking.

"So, while the dreamers are babbling of their plans for settling the affairs of other nations, Rickenbacker suggests that someone do a little thinking about American soldiers. Rick, like anyone who has seen our boys in the Pacific, know the privations, the misery, the dangers, the discomforts through which our boys are going in the stinking jungles and he asks if they are going to have to take all the chances during the war and then, in addition, sacrifice their prospects afterward.

"Will a soldier," asks Rickenbacker, "who has given up his job and his home and faced all the mess of this war, find out on his return that he has to join a Union and pay tribute in order to get a job? Will he find out that he has sacrificed all his seniority if he does get his old job back? In other words—is he going to have to take all the hazards of the war itself and then, in addition, find himself starting off behind the eight ball when he does return? How about somebody doing some thinking on that score, Rickenbacker asks.

"Our great obligation to the world is to keep ourselves strong so that we may be of service to those who are weak—our great obligation to ourselves is to see that the men who have sacrificed most to win this war and preserve this nation are not penalized for having done so. We'll never be fair to others if we aren't first fair to our own!"

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson: "The sharp fighting in Tunisia marks a clean out repulse for the Axis army after initial German victory."

NEW YORK — Joseph B. Eastman, director of the office of defense transportation: "Before the year is over the situation with respect to all rubber tired vehicles is more likely to become worse rather than better."

WASHINGTON — Claude Wickard, secretary of agriculture: "The black market is comparable to the speakeasy of the prohibition era."

The Great Game Of Politics

recent $25,000 income limit gesture are based on sound fiscal policy. When analyzed, the $25,000 proposal would affect so few people and bring in so little revenue that it becomes more than a little absurd. The former is so sound that the Administration is compelled to accept part of it anyhow. It shies away from the complete proposal, not for fiscal but for quite obvious political reasons.

ON THE other hand, there is obviously a disposition in Congress to meet politics with politics. Senators and House leaders say they do not intend to let the Administration put Congress in position where it can be demagogically accused of legislating in behalf of the upper brackets and unduly burdening the lowest income group. In brief, both sides are considering this vital business in terms of votes. Neither intends to be pushed into what they think is the weak political spot. Apparently, the President proposes to continue emphasizing the New Deal slogan of "soak the rich," though the saturation point having been reached it clearly isn't possible to soak them any harder without soaking everybody else proportionately harder still. And, apparently, Congress does not propose to let the President go into his fourth-term campaign, which his friends are now openly promoting, claiming to be the one exclusive and original "poor man's friend."

On both sides the pretensions are insincere and unreal. And they are, at the moment, the chief obstacle to the enactment of a sound and adequate tax program.

On both sides the pretensions are insincere and unreal. And they are, at the moment, the chief obstacle to the enactment of a sound and adequate tax program.

ACTUALLY, the whole tax question is in danger of being smeared with politics by men who have their minds on next year's campaign. This is not true of the few like Senator George of Georgia, who qualify as tax authorities. But it is true of the bulk of them. Perhaps a public sentiment may develop as a corrective for this state of affairs. The trouble is that that kind of public sentiment depends upon public understanding and, to put it mildly, the public mind is more than a little muddy on the subject. Nor has it been clarified by the recent Treasury-inspired radio discussions—quite the reverse.

PLAN ECONOMIC POSTWAR PARLEY

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The United States government today is planning to invite Great Britain, Soviet Russia, China and some of the other United Nations to send experts to Washington to discuss post-war economic problems.

It is hoped that the proposed discussions will lead to a general understanding between the United Nations on practical measures to avert economic warfare in the post-war world, and to lay the basis for establishment of a sound international economic system.

Decision of the American government to undertake the discussions "at once" was announced by Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles in a speech in Toronto, Canada, yesterday.

While it is intended to issue the invitations in the near future, no definite decision has been reached as yet as to whether a general conference of experts of all the United Nations will be summoned, or whether discussions will be held separately with the representatives of the major allied powers.

More Easy Chairs Needed For Camp At Transfer, Pa.

In getting New Castle's quota of twenty day rooms completely furnished for the Shenango Replacement Center, at Transfer, Pa., Mrs. Grace Phillips Johnson, president of Bundles for America, Inc., states that there is a need for more big easy and rocking chairs, to provide the furnishings for at least six additional rooms to be taken to the camp center, the approaching week.

New Castle residents have responded exceedingly well in all pleas for furniture. They have given willingly, radios, victrols, day beds, davenports, pianos and chairs, but it is found that more of the lounging type chairs are necessary.

If you have a big chair of any type, that is sturdy and can be freshed up or perhaps re-upholstered, give Bundles for America a call, phone 6518 and same will be called for. It is hoped that the quota needed, will be secured by the first part of the week, so that the ladies can do the painting jobs, re-varnishing or make other necessary repairs so the chairs can be sent immediately.

TAPROOM OWNERS MAY APPOINT "MANAGERS"

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 27.—In order to safeguard their licenses, the liquor control board today empowered taproom owners and other retail licensees to appoint "managers" to act for them while serving in the armed forces or employed in essential war industries.

The new liquor board regulation was adopted in the wake of the manpower commission's "war work or fight" order which listed the liquor industry as "non-essential," thus making license holders subject to military service regardless of their dependent status. Managers appointed by licensees must be approved by the board.

POLICE ACTION

BENEFITS FARMER

There is one farmer who will be a New Castle police force booster. He came to town for the first time in two years yesterday, ate a nice dinner and topped it off with one liquor and two bottles of beer, he told police. What happened after that he said he did not know. He said he had some money and harness. Today in police court Mayor Charles B. Mayne discharged the farmer and gave him his $65 and harness. Police picked him up in a car they thought he needed protection.

STILL THE GREATEST MOTHER IN THE WORLD

WAR FUND 1943

LAWRENCE COUNTY'S RED CROSS WAR FUND DRIVE STARTS MARCH 1st

WAR FUND

Back in 1918 we knew the American Red Cross as the "Greatest Mother In The World." In American camps, in France, in Belgium, and up in Germany after the Armistice we saw the great work the Red Cross accomplished. The sick and wounded were cared for, the hungry were fed, the folks back home were kept in touch with the welfare of their boys.

Today the American Red Cross faces the greatest task in its glorious history. This time it must operate in a dozen different countries, caring for an army and a navy twice as large as the one of 1918.

Neither tears nor cheers will help much. Your dollars will. Lawrence County is asked to give $96,000 to help carry on the work. The campaign for funds starts Monday, March 1. It is a personal responsibility for all of us to see that this county does not fail.

Last Friday, Francis "Ducky" Guinagh was among the local soldiers enroute to New Cumberland. Before even getting a chance to look around, the west side athlete was stricken with appendicitis and immediately moved to Indian town Gap for a quick knife job. The fancy basketball-baseballer is on recovery lane. Dr. Pierson Caplan, west end apothecary and contributor of this piece, reported today...

Sticking up his nose at the snow falling when he was calling, William Klee, the Ne-Ca-Hi cinder grinding strategist, reported yesterday that two track meets have been booked already. One of the gravel kicking parties is with Warren, Ohio, here; the other in Butler...

Alexander "Dutch" Pascarella, who did his share to squash the Huns in World War I and couldn't stand being a sidelineer when the sneaks sneaked up, is back in town visiting friends and relatives. The ex-star outfielder of the I.A.A. is stationed with the Marines near Philly...

Disbanding of minor leagues throughout the nation has caused a drastic reduction of St. Louis Cardinal farm clubs. Before the war, the Cards owned or had working agreements with 30 clubs. Today,

WATERLOO CLUB QUILTS BASEBALL

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—The Chicago White Sox today held title to 13 members of the disbanded Waterloo, Iowa, club of the Three-Eye baseball league, which has suspended operations because of the war. The Waterloo team was a White Sox farm.

Only five of the 13 will be on the Sox 1943 27-tive roster, however, since the other eight players are in the armed services. The five are Pitches Jack Teagan, Emil Bonnet, Donald Spiker and Gerald Tiffonburg and Shortstop Michael Lazorchak.

They are expected to be farmed out if the Sox can reach a working agreement with a minor league club.

A. A. U. Track Event Tonight

Dan Ferris Predicts Fall Of Half Dozen Records In Garden

WARMERDAM LISTED AMONG CONTESTANTS

By JACK MAHON
(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Old Dan Ferris, veteran track official who has been listening to the tunes of flying feet for the past 25 years, predicted today that no less than six records would be broken in the A. A. U. championships at Madison Square Garden tonight.

With Cornelius Warmerdam in the field, the pole vault mark is certainly to fall says Ferris and adds that new records will also be established in the 60-yard dash, high and low hurdles, one mile and three mile runs.

The pole vault mark of 14 feet 5-8 inches, held by Earl Meadows is little more than a warm-up for Warmer. He could probably break that without getting out of his sweat suit.

Ewell To Run
Pvt. Barney Ewell, the defending champion who arrived at Camp Lee, Va. via Penn State College, and Eddie Conwell, freshman ace of New York University, are expected to shave a touch of a second or more off the 6.2 mark in the dash. They have already equaled this time this season.

Herb Thompson, Hal Stickle, Ralph Hammond, the Big Ten champion and Eulace Peacock are also in the sprint field.

The mile run may see the fastest time of the new year which has been filled with surprises in this event. Earl Mitchell, Indiana, "winner of the Milrose mile; Frank Dixon, NYU, winner of the Boston A. A. mile and Gilbert Dodds, Boston A. A. winner of the Baxter mile last Saturday, all entered once again and will face in addition, P. B. Bobbie Ginn, former Nebraska star who has done 4:10.1.

The boys will really have to step to make Ferris a prophet in this one for the meet record is 4:08.7, established by Dodds last year. Dodds and Mitchell have run the distance in 4:08.8 this year.

The amazing Gregory Rice who has won 59 straight should shake-walk to a new record in the three mile event. Greg timed himself in a workout this week and was so far under the record at two and a half miles—he quit running!

Ferris is not only optimistic about the meet mark but thinks that with a field like Charlie Hlad, Bob Wright, Hal Stickle, Sherwood Finley, Ed Dugger, Don Olson, Warren Halliburton, Bill Laffield, John Saunders and Harrison Dillard on tap, a world mark in one of the hurdle events is not too remote a possibility.

The organization has six under its wing. An excellent tip-off regarding manpower in baseball...

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 27.—State game officials today were "not entirely satisfied" with the returns of 1942 game-kill reports from hunters. The reports were due Jan. 16, the game commission said, and warned that steps will be taken to collect the $2 penalty for failure to comply.

Robinson Avenges Jack Lamotta Loss

"Sugar" Pounds Out 10-Round Decision Before 15,149 Fans Friday

(International News Service)
DETROIT, Feb. 27.—Pvt. Ray Robinson, the Sugar Kid of Harlem, will go into the army next week boasting the notable achievement of having beaten at least once every opponent he ever met as a professional in a brilliant ring career of 41 fights.

Before a roaring crowd of 15,149 thrilled customers, who paid a record gross of $60,710.50, Robinson won a decision over Jack Lamotta in the same ring earlier in the month, is the only fighter who ever won a verdict over the classy Harlem Negro.

Decision Unanimous
The decision, which was the unanimous verdict of Referee Sam Hennessey and two judges, gave Robinson two victories in a series of three between the two New York boys. Robinson was the winner in their first encounter in Madison Square Garden some months ago.

While Referee Hennessey and Judge Frank Fisher each gave Robinson six rounds, Lamotta two and called two even, Judge Joe Lenehan gave Lamotta only one round—the seventh. He scored eight for Robinson and ruled one even.

While Robinson won a majority of rounds, the fight was close in total points, according to the version. Only two points separated the fighters in Hennessey's book.

Pvt. Greco Easily Whips Cleo Shans

Montreal Fighter Is Looking Forward To Crack At Beau Jack

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Pvt. Johnny Greco, Montreal, was headed back to the Canadian army today with a ten round decision over Cleo Shans to his credit and a fair chance at getting a light-weight title shot at Beau Jack.

As far as Jack and his Manager Chick Wergeles are concerned there have been plans completed for the Beau's next "title" defense. "We'll fight Greco, Willie Pep or anyone else provided the terms are right," said Wergeles. "I knew nothing about a match with Bob Montgomery being made for the title May 14 until I read it in the papers. We have not reached any agreement with Promoter Mike Jacobs."

Greco, who won the unanimous decision of Judges Joe Angelo, Marty Monroe and Referee Eddie Joseph, punched Shans all over the ring in winning his first main event at Madison Square Garden.

He did it on the floor the California colored boy but was his master, inside and at long range, throughout.

Shans lost the eighth, Greco the ninth round, for low punching. All the rest were Greco's rounds on the N.Y.S. score-card.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Several days ago while breakfasting with Joe Rocks, Pete Quinn and several others who like their sinkers and coffee in the same place every morning we went into a pugilistic fanning bee and one of the names which kept cropping into the talk-fest was that of Patsy Brannigan. Some of those gathered about the table were more familiar with Patsy's early days than the writer but none of them knew more about his fighting heart and his ability. They agreed that, were Pat or Johnny as he was christened, "going now" he would prove one of the outstanding—if not the most outstanding fighter in either the bantamweight or featherweight division.

As we got the story years ago Marty brother, now dead, was scheduled to box and Patsy took his place. Patsy was only 13 years of age at the time. He acquired himself so well he became a "demand". Some time later he came to New Castle. He fought 'em all and in all probably battled 500 times. His career carried him to Australia.

Some years ago Patsy and I took a flyer to Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Cleveland and a few other places. During the train ride Patsy said in reply to the question as to how many fights he had had "about 500". He cited some of his best purses and said that, if they were averaged they would amount to "about $300 or $350 each" which would have earned him about $175,000.

In the days of Patsy a $350 purse

District Rivals Stage 68th Setto On Spacious Beaver Falls High Court

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Feb. 27.—One of the oldest and longest basketball series in the district will be continued tonight when Westminster leads in games won by 36.

In the first game of the season between the rivals, Westminster captured a 55-42 decision. In view of the fact that the Covies are playing at home, the Titans are underdogs.

Game No. 68
The neighboring schools started their series back in 1896. Since then, 67 games have been played. Westminster leads in games won by 36.

After absorbing a surprise licking at the hands of Bethany, 58-55, Westminster found its winning ways again against Allegheny on Thursday night, winning easily.

Geneva has had fair success on the road but has proved, as in past seasons, formidable at home. One of the triumphs before the home gallery came at the expense of Duquesne, at a time when the Dukes were hot.

Over 19,000 Spectators Expected To See Cage Fray In Chicago Stadium

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—A crowd of more than 19,000, the largest of the season, will jam its way into Chicago stadium tonight as the University of Illinois attempts to clinch the Western Conference basketball championship in a game against Northwestern.

A year ago Northwestern and Illinois met in the stadium and more than 19,000 fans saw the Illini walk away with a 63 to 49 victory and the Big Ten championship.

Outside of the stadium attraction the other principal game on the Big Ten schedule is slated for Lafayette, Ind., where Wisconsin and Purdue, each with a 500 rating, will battle for fourth place in the conference standings.

Other games on tonight's Big Ten chart pit Chicago against Michigan at Ann Arbor and Ohio State at Iowa. Minnesota plays host to Great Lakes in a non-conference game and Notre Dame goes to East Lansing, Mich., to meet Michigan State.

Cards Advertise For Farm Hands

(International News Service)
ST. LOUIS, Feb. 27.—The world champion St. Louis Cardinals, once owners of one of the most extensive minor league "farm" systems in baseball, today advertised for players for their class AA B and D clubs.

"Cardinal organizations need players," reads an ad in the current issue of the Sporting News, baseball weekly.

The Cardinals, says the advertisement, "have positions open on our AA, B and C classification clubs. Cardinal President Sam Breadon said a great majority of the club's minor league players have gone into military service or war production work, creating a manpower shortage among the club's minor league teams."

Duquesne Plans Dropping Sports

Decision Will Be Made During Special Meeting Booked This Afternoon

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 27.—Whether intercollegiate athletics at Duquesne University will slip into a wartime coma will be decided today at a special meeting on the school campus.

While both tennis and golf were abandoned last spring, the hill-toppers fielded a better than average football team last fall and continued its basketball activities this winter. But the call of Uncle Sam has hit the Dukes exceptionally hard, with 14 more athletes ordered up for duty this week.

Contracts Not Renewed
Lending substance to reports that the Dukes plan to call it quits for the duration is the fact that the contracts of Aldo (Buff) Donelli, head football coach and athletic director, and of Steve Sinko, assistant gym mentor, expire March 1 and there has been no statement regarding their renewal.

Sinko has been reported in conference with nearby Monessen high school officials regarding a football coaching job there while Donelli has applied for a Naval Reserve Commission.

CATHCART, BOROWICZ SPEARHEAD ASSAULT AGAINST EVANS CITY

Scoring Twins Divide 38 Markers In Clash Played Here Friday Night Before Close To 1,000 Fans; "Greyhounds" Cinch Decision In Opening Period; Cathcart Rings 21 Points; Borowicz 17, Locals Next Face Rochester-Leedsdale Winner At Pitt Stadium Next Friday Night.

With towering Kenny "Skystraper" Cathcart and Captain Norbert Borowicz drum majoring an unstoppable offensive thrust, New Wilmington high, Section 21 diadem winner, easily hopped the first round Class B WPIAL basketball tourney hurdle by mashing a willing Evans City aggregation, Section 26 representative, 61-30, Friday night on George Washington floor.

Cathcart, a six foot six performer who moves with surprising agility, and Borowicz, class in capital letters, rewarded the close to 1,000 partisan fans with an eye-arresting show of marksmanship as they divided 38 points.

Controls, Rebounds
The tall center, who saw limited action, rolled in 21 points on 10 fielders and a foul. During the setto, Cathcart tried 23 shots, all of them around the rings, excepting one and connected for a 43.4 per cent mark. Because of his height, he monopolized rebounds.

Borowicz, sensational in all departments, moved up from his guard slot on offense and contributed 17 juicy points to the rout. His flips inside and outside of the foul circle were deadly. Defensively he took the play away from the remainder of the cagers.

The Butler countians fielded a scoring ace in Jennings Marburger. The fleet of foot forward won the hosannahs of the onlookers with one of the greatest shooting exhibitions witnessed here in several seasons. Marburger tallied all but seven of the Evans City points.

Grab Lead Soon
New Wilmington deputed the scoring column in the first five seconds on a tip-in by Cathcart. Borowicz soon corded the first of eight "figs" from the foul circle. From then until the final buzzer sounded, the "Greyhounds" kept adding to the advantage. By the close of the first, the locals held a commanding 22-7 edge, due mainly to Cathcart's six deuces.

Coach John Eagleson immediately started substituting in the second. With two gone, N. W. had boosted its margin to 29-11. Marburger started hitting from far out, the only shots permitted the visitors by a tight "zone." By intermission time, the college towners held a 34-18 margin.

Subs Look O. K.
Throughout the following 16 minutes of action, substitutes worked their way into the eliminatory contest. The stand-ins followed the precedent set by Cathcart and Borowicz as they dumped sweet-tot look-at shots. The third ended with Evans City behind, 46-23.

Cathcart broke into the lineup again for a few minutes and pocketed three more points. Borowicz connected twice before leaving. Marburger was the whole show for the Butler countians with three more birdies and a foul.

The winners tried 72 shots and hit the target 28 times to pass the 38 per cent mark while the losers meshed 13 flips out of 62 attempts for a 20 per cent average.

Play Next Friday
New Wilmington today is laying plans for the tough quarter-final round engagement which pairs the local 18-game winner against the winners of the Rochester-Leedsdale-skirmish booked for Pitt stadium next Tuesday. The "Greyhounds" return to tournament play next Friday on Pitt floor. Rochester and Leedsdale are pre-tourney favorites.

Next Monday night on Westminster's floor, New Wilmington faces Sharpshooter high in a regular season clash.

No School Monday In Pittsburgh Due To Strike Threat

City Children Excused, But Teachers Must Report Despite "Work Stoppage"

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 27.—City school children, excused all this week from classes because of registration for point rationing, will have their vacation extended one day, Monday, due to a threatened "work stoppage" by CIO union service workers.

Parents were asked to keep their children at home as a safety precaution, but school teachers and all other employees were under orders to report as usual the board of public education announced.

Jack L. Strobel, president of district 3, state, county and municipal workers union, refused to change his attitude that nearly 1,000 workers would refuse to work Monday as a protest against the school board's refusal to grant a $1 a day wage increase.

In a formal statement, the board pointed to recent pay increases and a bonus previously granted to the workers and declared it had exhausted all available sources for additional money.

Prove Picture Of American Captive Clever Axis Fake

(International News Service)

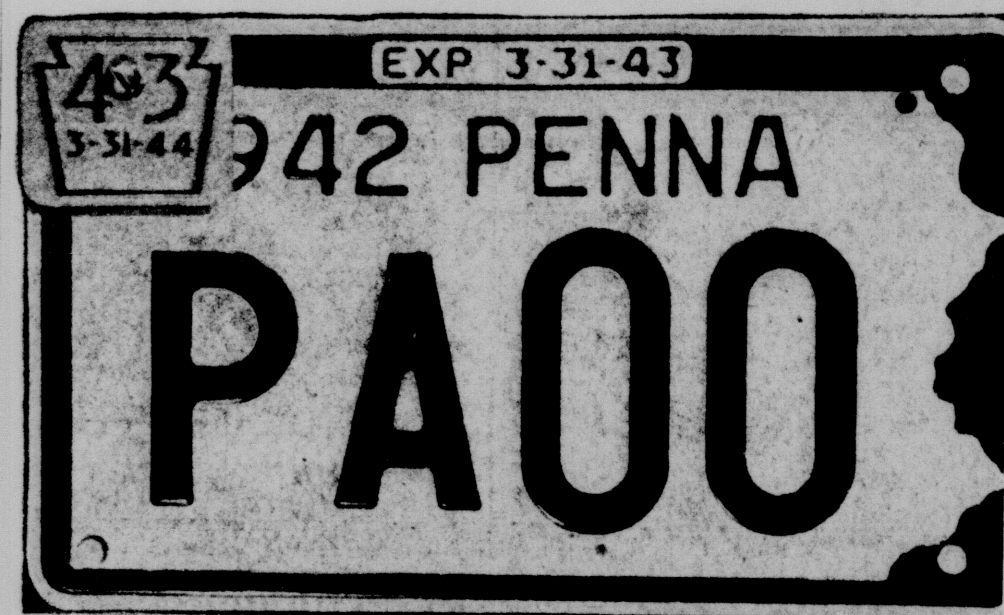

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—That picture you saw yesterday or the day before showing a blindfolded American flyer being captured by Japanese following the Doolittle raid on Tokyo is faked.

This was disclosed today by the Laskinlamb Institute of New York, officials of which, noting that the flyer was clad in a Laskinlamb flying suit, communicated with Major General Doolittle.

"We were exposed to no cold weather in Tokyo trip," replied General Doolittle, "and therefore did not use Laskinlamb suits. Sorry."

The cleverly posed photograph, first used in an Axis magazine and then in London and this country, thus was proved a propaganda trick.

Auto Tag To Be Smaller As Well As License Fee

Your motor license fee will be smaller this year in most cases, but your license tag will also be smaller. Shown with this article today is a picture of the 1943-44 Pennsylvania motor license tag, which is merely a small metal tab with a keyhole on the left and the numerals, 43, the license year and the date 3-31-44, expiration date. They are to be attached to the upper left-hand corner of the full-sized 1942 license plate.

Your application for license plates, also shown here, will contain a little more information this time. You will have to record the number of your 1942 license plates and also your occupation, the latter at the request of the Federal government. You must also answer whether or not you have 1942 plates and if not, a set will be issued to you along with the metal tabs.

The metal tabs instead of full-sized plates will save a tremendous amount of precious steel. The 1942 tags for the most part are nearly as good as they were when they were issued, and will certainly last another year.

OCD NOTES

Activities Of OCD Workers Are Outlined Here

A blackout is scheduled for the night of March 4.

D. O. Davies' special meeting in city hall, Thursday night, was well attended. All sessions should be similarly attended. No one should lose interest in the OCD. Some day the lessons learned may save lives.

War changes the pattern of our lives. It cannot change our way of life unless we are beaten says a new OCD pamphlet. The pamphlet informs every OCD worker how he can do his part to bring victory. Those who have not joined should do so now.

Schedules in effect this week will remain the same next week unless instructions have been received stating otherwise.

A large map designating where air raid posts are and auxiliary patrols has been tacked onto the wall of the city office of civilian defense.

Polish Soldier Sends Thanks For Gift To "Y" Club

The International Institute Mothers club of the Y. W. C. A. is in receipt of a letter from a soldier in the Polish army in Scotland, thanking the club for the gift and letter sent to him for Christmas. The letter contained the traditional "oplatek" which is always to be found in a Polish home at Christmas time.

The oplatek is semi-transparent wafers which are made in cast-iron molds and stamped with pictures of the Nativity. When the first star appears on Christmas eve, the head of the household breaks an oplatek with each guest and exchanges wishes for health and happiness. Oplatek is sent in letters to relatives and friends.

The letter written by Teofil Czerwinski, and which was translated by Miss W. J. N. Sroczyńska, nationality secretary of the International Institute, shows the spirit of the Polish people and their determination to regain their lost country.

Union High Leads In Can Salvage

Reports Are Made On Can Collections Despite Holidays In Schools During Week

Because of the rationing registration which went on in the public schools of the city and county during the week, only a partial total of cans collected by school children has been reported. Four county schools reported a total of 9094 tin cans collected with Union high school finishing first with 4019.

Individual high this week went to Lella Skaggs, aged 12, of the sixth grade in Union high school with a total of 816 cans. Miss Skaggs will be interviewed on Tuesday night, March 2, over station WKST.

Totals for the other county schools reporting follow: New Wilmington high school 3107, Shenango high school 1324, Chestown independent 644.

Only one school in the city made a report. St. Michael's parochial school. This total will be added to next week's total and a two-week total shown for all schools in the city, public and parochial.

Three More Have Joined WAACS

In addition to Miss Grace Rayd of Mount Route 7, Ellwood City, who joined the Woman's Auxiliary Army Corps yesterday, Sgt. John T. Bilpuch of the local army recruiting station, stated that three additional young women from the county have enlisted.

They will be sent to Daytona Beach on March 8, joining a great group of young women from western Pennsylvania who will leave on that date to begin their training.

All who enroll before March 8 will go to Daytona Beach, Fla. for their training, Sgt. Bilpuch announces.

Those enrolled today were: Anna M. Carra, 14 Walter street, daughter of Gino M. Carra.

Ellen M. Kelley, 200 Fairmont avenue, daughter of Lincoln Kelley.

Jane Hodgson of Laurel avenue, Ellwood City, daughter of Mrs. Delpha M. Hodgson.

KEEP WARM

Coal and oil and gas are needed for our war effort. Citizens must get along with less fuel. How can we keep our home comfortably warm? Heating engineers use a term not to express what they mean by a combination of heat and moisture. They call it effective temperature. In moist air at 65 degrees a person feels about as warm as in dry air at 70.

If we can keep the air in our homes moist, we will not need so much coal.

Those who use a stove for heating can keep a vessel of water on it and the vapor will supply moisture.

Some hot air furnaces have water pans attached to them which evaporates some water.

Pans of water can be placed on radiators and registers. Water may be sprayed or sprinkled around the house.

House plants help a lot to keep the air moist. They are good for the eyes too, same as pretty girls. The steam from cooking helps a lot in a small place. Use more moisture and less coal.
